COUNSELLOR'S CORNER

Dear Parents,

I reflected on the value of compassion recently and realised that cultivating true compassion in our children starts with simple, genuine curiosity about their inner world... in those moments where we listen without rushing to fix or advise. A simple place to start practising this would be right at the end of the day. Try setting aside just 10 minutes at bedtime to sit together and explore the "highs and lows" of their day. By tuning into their feelings with open curiosity and zero judgment, you offer your full presence and model the very empathy you hope to build in them.

Warm regards,

Miss Johnson

CONGRATULATIONS

We would like to extend our warmest congratulations to Mrs. Carstens on the arrival of her beautiful baby girl. We wish her and her family endless love, happiness, good health, and many special moments as they embrace this exciting new chapter together.
